Summary:

The study includes a statistical model that forecasts greenhouse gas levels in cities such as Delhi and Mumbai

Detailed analysis:

The research demonstrates how remote sensing complements ground monitoring, crucial for India's climate-action commitments under the Paris Agreement. Exam takers should note the gases monitored, the modelling approach, and policy implications for urban air-quality management.

Summary:

Nature Environment and Wildlife Society's mangrove-linked aquaculture project lauded as a model for sustainable livelihoods

Detailed analysis:

The award highlights a climate-resilient, community-driven model that integrates mangrove conservation with fish farming. Relevant for exams are the concepts of sustainable livelihoods, blue-economy initiatives, and the role of international bodies like FAO in endorsing Indian best practices.
