Last-Minute Exam Papers: Nilekani's Bold Move to Crush Leak Culture!

Image 1 (Real):

Original Image

Image 2 (Pexels):

Summary:

Nandan Nilekani proposes that preparing question papers at the eleventh hour could reduce the incentive for leaks, urging expansion of computer-based testing (CBT) infrastructure nationwide.

Detailed analysis:

The suggestion targets the chronic problem of paper leaks in Indian competitive exams (NEET, JEE, CUET, NET). By shortening the window between paper setting and exam day, the chance for unauthorized access drops sharply. Scaling CBT infrastructure would also standardise security protocols, though it demands substantial investment and training. For aspirants, the move could mean more unpredictable exam schedules but potentially fairer competition.
